

frame of reference

Frame of Reference is an outdoor exhibit that encourages visitors to share their experiences and stories with each other to create a community that is less hostile and more accepting of different identities, cultures, and races.

The installment will be divided into three sections:

Display - Projects created outside of the installment can be displayed for a longer period of time, creating a gallery within the space

Create - Participants will be encouraged to create art at the Creation Station and will be provided materials to use

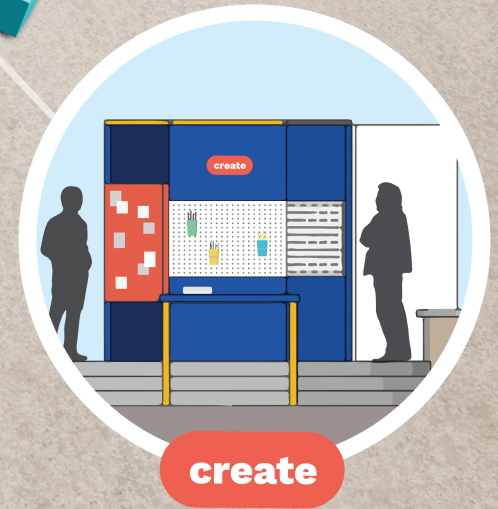

Trade - Art created at the Creation Station can be posted on the trading walls, where participants can have conversations about the art on the wall as well take a piece home

display

trade

create