ACTIVITY CHALLENGE STATIONS

1 - Here comes Jocktopus finally on the flat! This is the first time the pair will be competing in dressage, but I have to say seeing an octopus on a horse is strange.

2 - Woah! That's a kick out in the whole set and Jocktopus gets a 5 meter penalty shot!

3 - You have to question if it's fair to let an octopus play an aquatic sport but he is leaving it schaal out there.

4 - I believe the sport name is a reference to pickle boat races where they used broken wooden paddles to play.

5 - Wood like Redwood?

6 - Cheering in the parking lot is weird, but here it goes: Give me a "J"! Give me an "O"! Ah, his name is too long.

7 - Just say the team name, go Blue Devils! Go Davis!

8 - And another swing and a miss. Good thing that these aren't real pitches and Jocktopus has as many chances he needs.

9 - Well, he's from the ocean. He doesn't Playfields too often.

10 - We're here at western side of the UC Davis campus. Jocktopus and Hutchinson are both lined up for the 100 meter, but I think Jocktopus has the advantage.

11 - At least 8 feet, I'd say.

12 - Woah, watch out for the spikes on that octopus!

13 - Octopi don't have spikes.

14 - I was referring to the action here in the student quad.

15 - Jocktopus has the ball into the rival's shooting circle and he's coming toward the goal! What an exciting day on Aggie Field.

1 - Oh no! Jocktopus took a nosedive on that last move. - Guess having 8 legs doesn't help too much in post-modern, contemporary dance. Pamela, can you help?

2 - It says here that communication is key in belay rock climbing. Terms like "climb on" or "give me slack", but Jocktopus doesn't speak English so it's been a difficult climb in the rocknasium.

3 - And that's another first place for Jocktopus in the 200 meter sprint! It says that he's sponsored by Fleet Feet who shoes give him the fancy footwear you're seeing today.

4 - How does Jocktopus pick what legs he puts the skis on? - I do believe he bought 4 pairs from Ken, so he'll be coming down the mountain with 8 skis.
